RED COSMONAUTS

They're Still Going Around

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia's twin cosmonauts hurtled through space today, setting new records with every orbit but giving no indication of when they would be brought back to earth.

Negotiation Documents Destroyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A government accountant today accused former Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey's old firm of destroying pertinent records of negotiations with the government for a multimillion dollar stockpile contract.

The accountant, Robert H. Henson, a supervisor in the General Accounting Office, said he found penciled notations in the files of the M.A. Hannay Co. indicating that documents were destroyed last February and March.

That was after Sen. Stuart Symington's stockpile investigating subcommittee had shown an interest in the profits realized by Hanna subsidiaries under government contracts signed 10 years ago.

Symington asked Henson who the subcommittee should question about the missing records.

"I'd go right to the top—George Humphrey and Gilbert Humphrey," Henson answered. Gilbert Humphrey is the former treasury secretary's son.

Adrift 20 Hours on Sea

CATHEDRAL CITY — James K. Otto, 25, of 38-281 Charlesworth Drive here, is reported in improved condition in Desert Hospital, Palm Springs, today, where he is recuperating from 20 hours of exposure afloat in the Salton Sea.

Otto, who spent 20 hours in a vain attempt late Sunday and Monday to swim to the North Shore Beach after a power boat in which he was riding stopped in the middle of the sea, suffered from heat exhaustion and

Cloture on Space Bill Invoked

Senate Favors
Anti-Filibuster
In 63-27 Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today invoked its anti-filibuster rule for the first time in more than 35 years and voted to limit debate on the administration's space satellite communications bill.

The vote in favor of cloture was 63-27, three more than the two thirds needed.

The action came on a leadership motion to curb a determined Democratic talkathon against the stalled bill. The dramatic vote brought the first successful use of the cloture rule since February 1927, when a prohibition measure was being debated.

Even with cloture, the Senate still faced days of debate and voting to clean up action on the bill. Each senator still is entitled to one hour to speak on the bill and all amendments combined. More than 200 amendments have been introduced.

The cloture vote marked the first showdown in the angry controversy over the communications bill which has snarled the Senate in dispute for more than a month.

Private Space Company
The bill, opposed by a bloc of filibustering liberals, have created a privately owned but government-supervised corporation to operate a space communications system exemplified by the recent success of the Telstar satellite.

The long-awaited vote posed a trying test for many senators who traditionally have opposed cutting off debate.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., told the Senate that in voting to gag debate: "It is with great reluctance that I will for the first time vote for cloture and I hope it will be the last time."

However, Young said, "we must get this program going at once." The bill has "received unusual scrutiny and examination" by the Senate, he said.

Dispute Over Give Away
The determined opponents contend it would create a give away monopoly dominated by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Senate Leader Mike Mansfield and other administration leaders hotly disputed this charge.

Before the vote, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said he was voting for cloture because "this entire proceeding has turned into a circus." He said it was "fitting for a carnival" but not for the Senate.

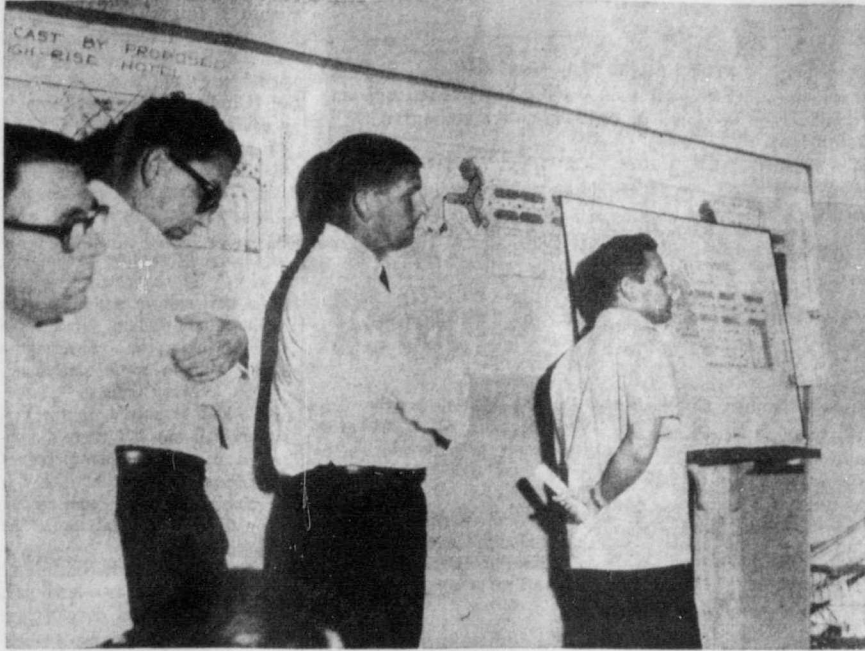

"The Soviet is orbiting. We're filibustering," Lausche declared. But Sen. Wayne L. Morse, D-Ore., charged that opponents of the bill appear to be avoiding public discussion. He also said in a statement that "there seems to have been a blackout by the press regarding the underlying issues in this controversy."

John Wiswell, 27, of 133 Ocotillo Palm Springs, and 20-year-old Charlotte McGann, Costa Mesa, completed the boating party that spent a night and most of Monday adrift in the Salton Sea. All appeared to be in good physical condition today.

"We were lucky," Miss McGann remarked quietly.

"It was my second trip to the Salton Sea in the 24 years I've lived here," Kenneth L. Brott, 24, of 32-329 Whispering Palms, told The Desert Sun. He got a severe sunburn the first time out, he added.

Four companions who were on the boat outing with Otto apparently suffered no ill effects except minor sunburn and muscle fatigue. One young man, John Binder, Cathedral City, has been in the water eight hours late Sunday and early Monday before being retrieved into the boat. His three other boat companions remained in the craft during the long powerless float.

FINAL PLEA for a revised plan for the proposed $10 million Desert Inn, sought for midtown Palm Springs by George Alexander and Samuel Firks, was made to the city council Monday by Robert Alexander, right. With young Alexander during the presentation were Richard Coleman, left, city planning director; Robert Mitcham, and Otto Killian, architects in the Charles Luckman firm. (Desert Sun Photo)

Local Leaders Get the Desert's Water Picture

By GENE JOHNSON

A mixed picture — optimism and pessimism — was spelled out for the Desert Water Agency this morning by representatives of the State Water Resources Board.

They were reporting on a two-year study by state engineers of the entire Coachella Valley Basin. Vernon Valentine, senior engineer, who described the report, said it would be in completed form by about Nov. 1.

The report is expected to be used as a base for the contracting of some 33,000 acre feet of water from the state to the local agency to supplement the valley's ground supply.

Primary Conclusion
"The primary conclusion of the report," Valentine told the agency, "is that you have a great underlying water basin with a large capacity but the storage is declining at a fairly high rate."

He explained that the study of up to 15,000 feet under the valley disclosed that "there is over 39 million acre feet of storage capacity at the 1,000 foot level."

Valentine reported that "this is quite a valuable resource," indicating that the Palm Springs sub-area of the valley has about 4,600,000 acre feet of that storage space.

However, Valentine went on to report that other studies disclosed that the seasonal deficiency of water from the valley's underground sources reaches 100,000 acre feet.

Out of Balance
This figure, he explained, was based on the 510,000 acre feet used from the underground supply against the 410,200 acre feet annually brought in. (Incoming figures include 72,000 from mountain runoff, 4,000 from direct precipitation, 4,200 subsurface inflow and 330,000 imported; while the losses come from surface and subsurface outflow and exported water.)

Valentine, who was accompanied here by attorney Steve Birdie-bough and engineer Wayne MacRostie of the state agency, told the Desert commission that the 100,000 loss is primarily from agriculture usage in the lower valley.

Other data from the report indicated that the Palm Springs subsurface area drop in storage water took a big dive starting in 1944, with an estimated 20,000 acre foot loss annually. On the other hand, he explained, the Thermal area profile shows a big increase starting in 1950.

Economic Demand
A projected 33,000 "economic demand" for Desert Water Agency purchase share of state water was devised from a study of the underground figures, according to Valentine. He explained that the state's figure comes very close to the 35,000 acre feet estimate of the local agency's engineer, Bert Webb.

Contract Totals
The senior engineer emphasized that the figures were the department's current estimates, and not allotments although he estimated they would probably be close to the totals offered each district in future contracts.

While the local agency is hopeful of an early contract, Valentine indicated it might be "possible" for it to be signed by November. If so, he explained, bills for initial construction work on transportation facilities for the water would start coming to the agency in the 1963-64 fiscal year.

'All Bets Off' R. Alexander Tells Council

The proposed $10 million Desert Inn project, planned as a modern, high-rise successor to the famed midtown landmark hotel, died in its councilmanic travails last night.

"All bets are off — we're not going to go broke here," Robert Alexander, Palm Springs manager for Alexander Construction Co. and son of firm president George Alexander, told the council.

Follows Vote
Young Alexander's emphatic statement came after the council voted 3-2 to accept a planning commission-approved layout plan for the development, instead of a revised plan. The council action, taken on a motion by Vice Mayor Ted McKinney and seconded by Councilman Earle Strobe, included approval of a conditional use permit for the planned convention facility, zone changes for commercial buildings, and a height variance for a proposed eight-story hotel. Councilman Harry Paisley voted for the McKinney motion, while Mayor Frank Bogert and Councilman George Beebe cast the dissents.

Earlier Pleas
Both Alexander and Samuel Firks, the self-term "silent partner of George Alexander" in the project, made pleas for a plan given informal approval in a joint council-planning commission luncheon last Monday. Neither body had a quorum present at the study session, when Thomas W. Eschen, city public works director, was ordered to work as liaison with Charles Luckman and Associates architects Otto Killian and Robert Mitcham on the revised plan.

The plan Alexander was encouraged to bring in featured a central entry drive from Palm Canyon Drive; the planning commission had approved access off Andreas Road and Tahquitz Drive, via a proposed Belardo Road extension. The planners objected to mixing vehicular and pedestrian traffic in a planned central shopping mall area.

Eschen had told the council that the central entry road was not a major traffic problem. Mayor Bogert emphasized that any hotel needed "a face" for unobstructed customer view. His remarks seconded a plea made by Firks, who had previously been silent.

Council Revives
Prospects for Fall Grand Prix
The Palm Springs City Council today revived the prospect of a fall grand prix race on the city airport, in action taken during an adjourned council meeting at the Riviera Hotel.

Councilmen unanimously voted to authorize the project if the city airport commission will reverse its denial in a Wednesday morning meeting. Merrill Lowell, race promoter, presented a letter from the Federal Aviation Authority stressing the FAA has no objections to the race.

Death Pact Seen
For Indio Couple
INDIO — An estranged Indio couple found shot to death in a home here Monday may have died in a murder-suicide, sheriff's investigators surmised today.

Mrs. Faye Walker, 50, and her estranged husband Theron, 59, were found crumpled on the floor of the kitchen in Walker's home at 43-255 Madison Avenue, when a sheriff's deputy checked the house yesterday. Officials of the Security First-National Bank here notified deputies Mrs. Walker was missing when she failed to report for work or call Monday morning. Officers said both victims apparently were killed by bullets from a .32 calibre automatic pistol found lying near Walker's feet. Mrs. Walker's body was near that of her estranged husband.

Mrs. Walker, separated from her husband for several months, had lived in Palm Desert, investigators said. Her car was first seen at her husband's home early Sunday afternoon.

New York Stocks at Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks finished higher for the fifth consecutive session today after a mid-afternoon rally.

A jump of 4 points in Du Pont spearheaded the advance, followed by gains of nearly 2 in American Telephone, General Electric, General Foods and International Nickel and about 1 in Chrysler, Eastman Kodak and Procter & Gamble.

American Motors and Ford rose nearly 1 in a firm auto sector. Chemicals were higher and steel firmed. Alcoa rose about 3.

Electronics continued to ride the crest of a rally begun Monday on speculation that the U.S. will step up its space efforts following the launching of Russia's two manned satellites. IBM rose about 7, Litton 4, and Varian, Zenith, RCA, Beckman and Fairchild Camera at least 1 each.

Anyone Seen Betty Lou? Palm Springs Tax Rate Now Officially Adopted

MECCA — They've been looking for old Betty Lou all over these parts, but the independent traveler may have been sighted walking down Highway 111 near Rancho Mirage Monday.

Betty Lou, 25 and cantankerous, walked off from the DBW Alexander Ranch on Grant Street here Sunday. She left no clear clues of her direction, and none at all on her reason for leaving home.

Indio sheriff's deputies were given aid in tracking Betty Lou by surprised motorists and a Rancho Mirage resident. She was easy to spot against the desert foliage, deputies reported.

Betty Lou is a sad-eyed black mule, officers explained.

Algerian Trouble In Bringing Army Under Control

ALGIERS (UPI) — The Algerian political bureau ran into opposition today from the military in its efforts to quickly bring the country's 55,000-man army under its control.

A spokesman for one of the six military districts said the political bureau headed by Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella should not attempt demilitarization too fast.

"Nothing can be done at present," he said.

The spokesman declared the new army must be "a function of the kind of regime that the Algerian people will choose freely."

Minor Injury On Highway 74

PALM DESERT — Charles Albert Lafontaine, 24, of San Bernardino, escaped with minor injuries when his car zoomed off a curve on Highway 74 five miles south of here, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Lafontaine, who made the unplanned detour Sunday, was taken to Casita Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. His car was taken away with major damage, the CHP investigators said.

Unemployed Trucker Held For Arson

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry D. Taylor, a 27-year-old unemployed trucker, was held for prosecution on arson charges today as firemen mopped up 800 acres of now-blackened brush he admitted setting fire to Monday.

Taylor, with a record of arson that stretches back to his years in reform school while a teenager, was seen on the scene by a forest ranger seconds before the first scent of smoke was picked up.

While all the instruments of modern fire-fighting moved to keep the blaze from spreading to the plush $50,000 homes in the Padua Hills, an equally efficient police machine broadcast Taylor's description and license and netted the suspect in a matter of hours.

U.S. Forest Service investigator Elwood M. Stone said Taylor of La Verne, had learned to make the simple incendiary device he used in Monday's Webb Canyon fire at a correctional institute.

"Taylor has been responsible for at least 65 other brushland fires in Los Angeles County during the past five years, according to what we are able to learn," Stone said.

setting the official budget. The budget requires $1,574,128 to be raised from property taxes, out of the total $2,051,411 operating budget.

The council approved the Williams and Williams architectural plans for the $273,000 county branch office to be constructed on the civic center.

Williams reported that the building will contain approximately 12,000 square feet of floor space, with 10,500 on the ground floor, and 1,500 in a basement. Construction costs are estimated at $232,000, plus other costs including $32,000 site development.

Other councilmanic action included 4-1 approval of planning commission recommendations for county zoning of Sections 19, 29, 30 and 24 northwest of Palm Springs, near Windy Point.

Dissenting vote was cast by Vice Mayor Ted McKinney, who explained that the recommendation would halt a partially developed trailer court in the sector.

Isle of Capri Dancing for First Lady

RAVELLO, Italy (UPI) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy slipped aboard a yacht Monday night and visited the Isle of Capri, where she danced with an Italian count in a dimly lighted cellar night spot called the "No. 2 Club."

Mrs. Kennedy, vacationing here with her daughter Caroline, arrived in romantic Capri almost unnoticed with Princess Irene Galigne-Medici, one of Italy's top fashion designers and the princess' husband.

Section 14 Burnings Probe Set

The Palm Springs City Council last night ordered an administrative investigation and report on Section 14 burnings carried out under a Superior Court order last month.

The council took the action — after emphasizing that the city was not involved in the action, nor could it legally make payments for personal goods lost — in answer to a plea by 72-year-old Mrs. Florence Fatheree for city payment for her house and household goods.

The Complaint
Mrs. Fatheree, who waited through a five-hour council agenda to make her request, explained that she had been out of town when houses on 15 acres of Section 14 Indian land were destroyed by court order.

"I put all my savings in that little house," the veteran Palm Springs resident told the council. Mayor Frank Bogert told the council and Mrs. Fatheree that "it has absolutely nothing to do with the city." He suggested that perhaps a civil suit, or action through the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Indian owners, or conservators might result in some settlement.

Many Calls
"I've had 20 people on the reservation call me, but there's nothing we can do," Mayor Bogert said. He explained that the city is prohibited by law from giving money to an individual under the circumstances.

Mayor Bogert explained that home owners on lease land east of the new Spa hotel development have asked 90 days to remove their houses and plantings. He suggested the administrative check out the details of that situation also, after explaining the matter was a landlord-tenant problem.

Ask Action
Four residents on North Calle Encillia have asked possible city action to provide a 90-day clearance time for removing houses and trees "without total loss."

The quartet—Daniel Murphy, William Shukuroff, Laura E. Reiger, and L. C. Ripley — wrote The Desert Sun that area residents have lived in Palm Springs 10 to 18 years, and constructed their home in conformity to all building code requirements. The letter reported that the homeowners involved have paid their 1962 taxes.

Mayor Bogert told the administration that the problem is between landowner and tenants. The land has been leased for a Spa development, he said.

The food industry employs a total of 1.6 million store workers.

Something you should think about if you're about to buy a truck:

If all trucks were built the same way, cost the same to keep up, were worth the same at trade-in . . . then probably the price tag would be your only concern. It can't be, of course, because some trucks have more quality than others. And marks of quality are the real keys to low cost.

Chevrolet trucks, for example, have double-wall construction, which gives bodies and cabs more strength. Cabs are insulated against heat, cold and noise. A big part of road shock, which shortens truck life, is damped out by Chevrolet's suspension system; it also makes riding in the truck a pleasure. Pickup bodies and cabs are separated to eliminate stress between them.

Value such as this has induced more people to invest in Chevrolet trucks every year since 1937.

This can be a good time to buy a modern new Chevrolet truck

Late summer traditionally is the season for all-around savings on a new Chevrolet truck . . . selection is still good . . . deliveries are prompt . . . and Chevrolet dealers are doubly anxious to put you into a new vehicle in order to make way for next year's models. Coupled with the efficient performance a new Chevrolet truck will give you, it seems evident that you couldn't buy at a better time. Come in and take full advantage of it!

World's Biggest Igloo

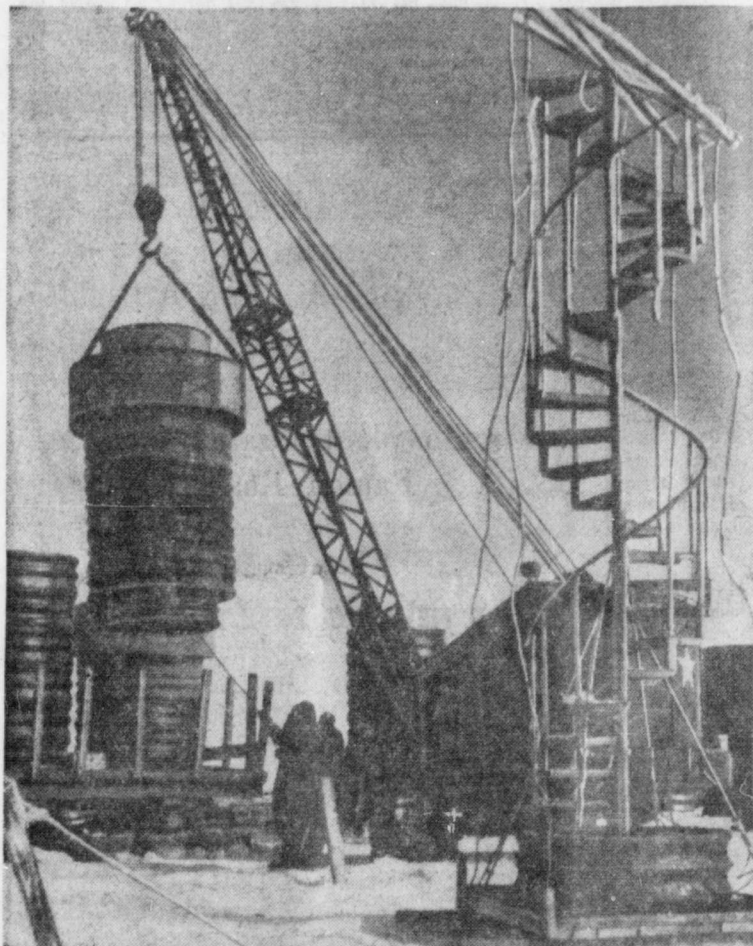

U.S. Army Polar Research Center Built Under Greenland Icecap

As cities go, Camp Century, built under 30 feet of ice in Northern Greenland, is nothing to sniffle at. In fact, the men stationed there seldom get colds in the germ-free air that fills the massive man-made igloo that is the U.S. Army Polar Research and Development Center.

Located about 150 miles northeast of the Air Force Base at Thule, the 150 inhabitants living in the city under the ice have discovered several unique features that would delight even the average housewife. The pure, mineral-free water of Camp Century is probably the softest water in the world. Soap is used sparingly in the showers as even a 15-minute rinse won't take off all the lather. Meats, placed in natural caches, must be warmed up in a conventional refrigerator before they are ready for cooking. There is no dust problem and when it comes to washing clothes, the sun shines 24 hours a day during the summer months.

There are no guns or bombs at Camp Century. It is used to test man, machines and material in a deep-freeze environment. Strangely enough, at its 30-foot depth and with its thick shield of ice, the world's biggest igloo is probably the world's best fallout shelter.

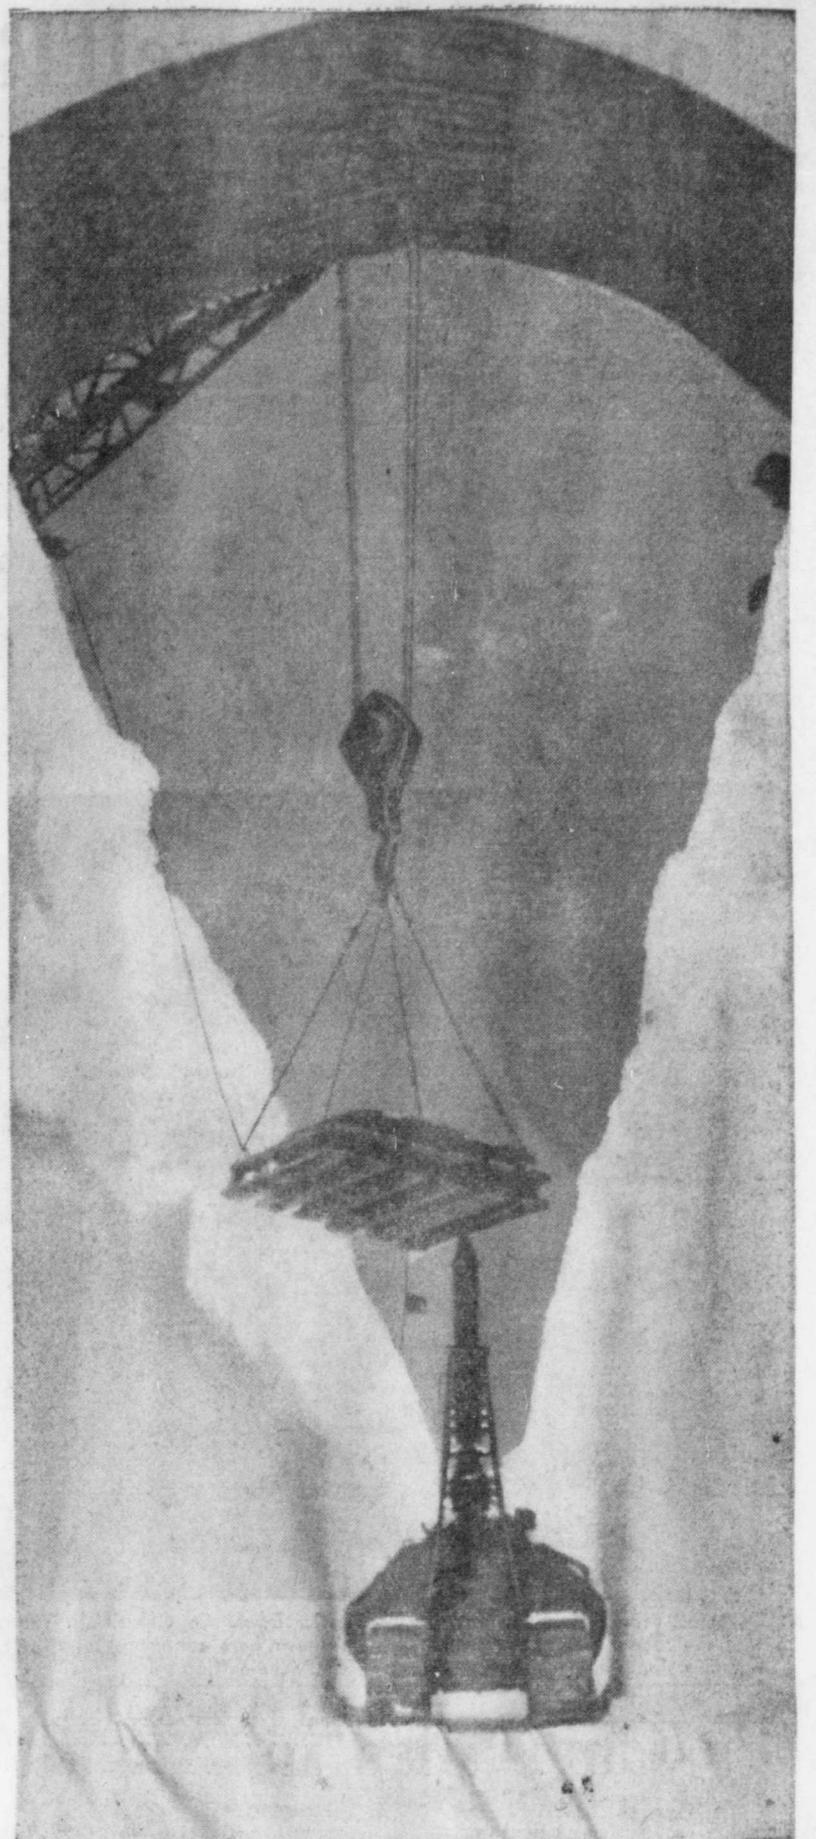

Setting his sights on a winter base for the U.S. Army Polar Research and Development Center, officer surveys area over Greenland icecap.

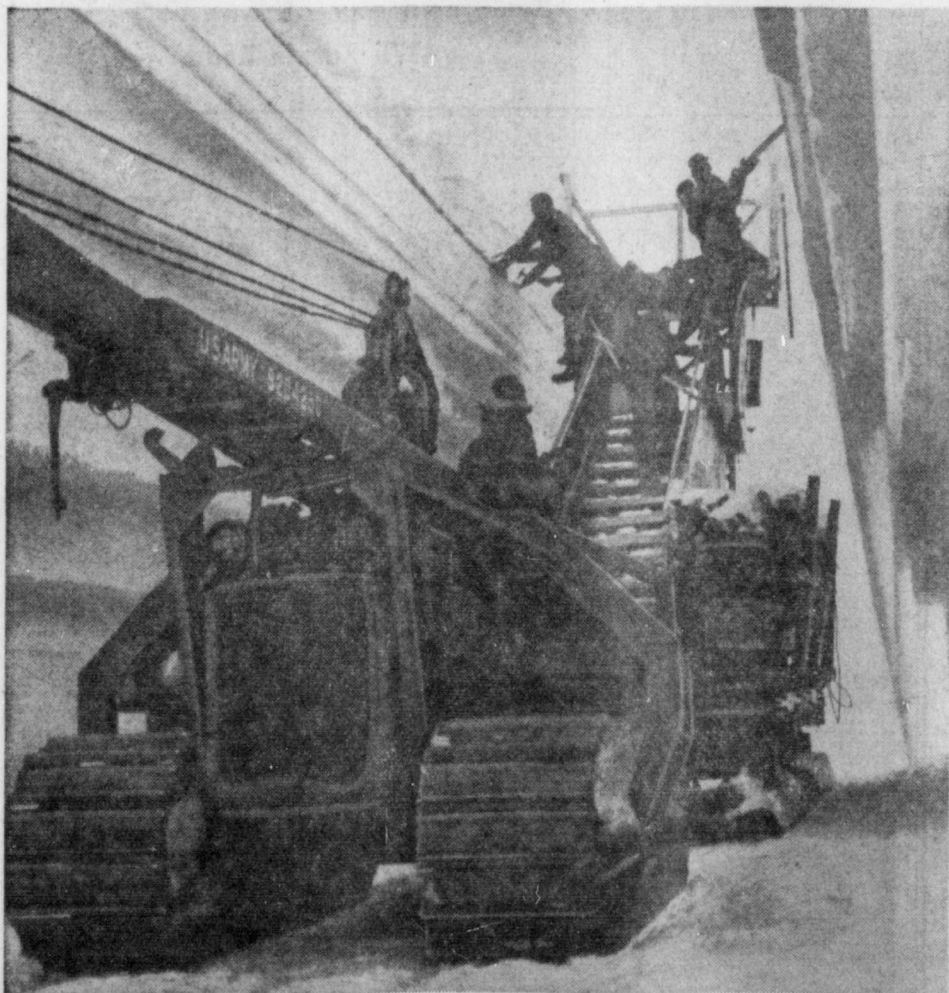

Escape hatch and staircase are moved into position. The men find living under the ice superior to surface shelters.

The latchstring is always out in Camp Century. Visitors enter through escape hatch. Small reactor supplies the center with light and heat.

Main trench, 1,200 feet long, is covered with steel for roofing. Snow, blown over top, becomes hard enough for traffic above.

Riding behind tractor, construction crew sharply undercuts walls to give maximum floor width and minimum span at top for the roof of steel.

Johnson-Colwell Rites Read

The patio around the pool of the Holiday Inn in Indio was the setting for the beautifully appointed reception which followed the wedding earlier this month of Miss Susan Louise Johnson and Dr. Edwin O. Colwell Jr.

Formal arrangements of white blossoms created a background for the receiving line, and heart-shaped bouquets of other summer flowers floated in the pool. Later the guests danced to the music of the serenaders, and then the just-wed pair let for their honeymoon journey through Northern California. When they return, they will make their home in Chino, where the benedict will continue his practice as a doctor of veterinary medicine.

Evening Ceremony

Their marriage took place at 8 o'clock at the evening at the First Methodist Church of Indio. As she gave her vows before the Rev. C. E. Rayburn of Eagle Mountain Community Church, the bride was wearing a summery gown of white, silk organza, molded on princess lines and detailed at the midriff, at the widely scooped neckline, and at the edges of the sleeves with lace medallions. She added a crown of lace and pearls to hold her bouffant veil, and carried a shower of lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids.

Her four attendants were wearing soft pastels as they preceded her to the altar, their frocks fashioned identically with lace bodices and balloon skirts of taffeta, and matched by their short flaring head-veils.

In Soft Pastels

The maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Ruth Stewart of Indio, was all in pink; one bridesmaid, Miss Judy Hair, was in yellow; and the other, Miss Bonnie Clause, chose blue. For their flowers, they held inverted parasols of matching lace filled with carnations in the same color as their ensembles.

Four-year-old Abbie Garske performed flower girl duties in a little dress of pink and orchid, with which she wore a tiny orchid veil, and her parasol held pink carnations.

The benedict awaited his bride at the altar with his brother-in-law, Neil Hillman of Tulare, as best man. The ushers were Murray Galbraith of Paso Robles and the bride's cousin, Robert Snow of La Habra.

Guest List

Among the hundreds of guests at the wedding festivities were the bride's 97-year-old great-grandmother, Mrs. E. J. Newlin of La Habra; her grandmother, Mrs. George A. Johnson of Indio; her great-aunt, Mrs. George Toms of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; her great-uncle, Charles Mendenhall of Escondido and her grandfather, L.C. Mendenhall of Aguanga.

Present also were the bridegroom's father, Mr. E. O. Colwell Sr. of Grass Valley; and his sisters and their families, the Neil Hillmans of Tulare and Mrs. Arthur T. Cummings of Sacramento.

The new Mrs. Colwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson, owners of the Holiday Inn. She received her education at Coachella Valley Union High School and Palomar College in San Marcos, and was a member of McCormick's Flyers and the Girl Scouts.

Her husband, whose mother was the late Mrs. Edwin O. Colwell Sr., is a graduate of the University of California at Davis.

ROMANTIC NEWS TOLD AT DINNER
Donivee Ellison

Donivee Ellison Betrothed To David Dawson Kinley

Of interest here and in the East is the news that Miss Donivee Ellison and David Dawson Kinley are betrothed.

The engagement was announced by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Louis (Jacqueline) Greenwald, at a family dinner party held last Saturday evening at the Riviera Hotel. In addition to the affianced pair, the guest list included Miss Ellison's sister, Jacqueline; her escort, John Ole; another sister, Miss Jane Ellison; and a brother, Charles Ellison.

The future benedict, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D.

Kinley of Greenwich, Conn., is spending the summer in California with the Forestry Service, stationed in Pasadena.

Campus Activities

Miss Ellison, whose father is Mr. Jack Ellison of Palm Springs, was graduated from Palm Springs High School, where she was vice president of the student body. She was one of Palm Springs' Debs, and served as president of Sigma Phi Lambda, a social club. She also was president of the Student Ambassadors.

In the autumn, she will continue her studies at Principia College in Elmhurst, Ill., where she will be a senior majoring in political science. At Principia, she is active in campus dramatics, a member of the student council, and campus social head.

Her mother is the owner of Jacqueline's fabric shop.

Also at Principia

The prospective benedict, whose mother was the late Mrs. Kathleen W. Kinley of Greenwich, also attends Principia College as a political science major, and he took his preparatory work at Principia Upper School in St. Louis, Mo. He is affiliated with Phi Alpha Eta, honorary scholastic society, and was elected student body president, a post he also held at the Upper School.

The wedding has been planned for June of 1963, to take place in Palm Springs following the young couple's graduation from Principia College. After their marriage, they will continue their studies in political science, the bride at Syracuse University in New York, and her husband at the Maxwell School of Public Administration, also in Syracuse.

Gladioli Ideal for Use in Summertime Arrangements

Although the gladiolus is a year-round flower, it is especially plentiful — as are asters — in August for budget-conscious women to enjoy in their everyday living.

The remarkably versatile and long-lasting flower, available almost every imaginable color, adapts itself easily to every kind of home-modern, colonial, summer cottage, or apartment.

You can get the most for your money in beauty and enjoyment by making three — instead of one — striking arrangements of gladioli, each different for dining and living rooms and entrance hall, with just one dozen "glads" plus a little green foliage.

For a dining table, two gladioli stalks, with their own foliage in a low container, may be displayed effectively in a horizontal design especially appropriate for centerpieces. For an entrance hall, three gladioli, with three ti leaves in the background, may be arranged in a slim vertical design, particularly suited to narrow wall areas.

For a living room, seven "glads" may be displayed with salal foliage in an asymmetrical triangle. Place the tallest gladiolus first to establish proper proportion and height. Use five spikes in varying lengths to fill out the design. Separate the seventh spike, in the darkest color, into two or three units and use them for the focal point.

It's Christmas in August as Juniors Wrap Yuletide Gifts

The thermometer may say it is summer for desert dwellers, but for members of the Palm Springs Junior Woman's Club — it's Christmas.

Under the direction of Mrs. Jerry Stickle, the club's international affairs chairman, the young matrons have been elbow-deep in colorful tissue and tinsel ribbons, wrapping gifts for Au Chau Kuen and her family in Hong Kong. For the third year, the juniors are sponsoring the 10-year-old Chinese girl under the auspices of the Foster Parents Plan, and deliveries bound for Hong Kong take many months to cut through the red tape that hampers the road to their destination.

'Luxuries'

At a recent meeting of the club, held in the home of Mrs. Gerald Pelton, Mrs. Stickle reported that the $15 checks mailed from the club each month have enabled Au Chau Kuen to finish two years of schooling at the head of her class. Her family has moved into a one-room dwelling that has walls of board, and they were able recently to purchase a one-burner stove. "The glowing letters from our foster daughter about their newly acquired 'luxuries,' Mrs. Stickle pointed out, "make our efforts seem most worthwhile."

Cured fish were the first manufactured products made on the Pacific Coast. The Indians had a considerable dried salmon industry on the Columbia River long before the white man came. They even had trade agreements with the plains tribe of the interior, who would trade wheat and corn for salmon.

French Expert Says Our Wines Are 'Very Fine'

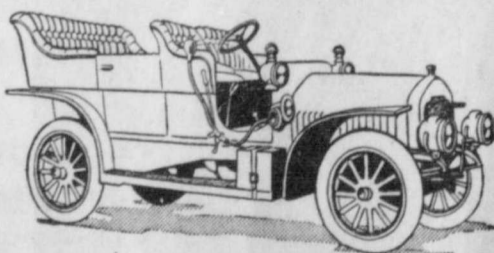

Smart hostesses will be happy to learn that California wines are like those of France, very fine. This is the opinion of the agricultural advisor to the French Chamber of Deputies.

Jean Paul Vinentini of Paris, in the United States on a month's trip under State Department auspices, was speaking at the University of California in Berkeley after a visit to two North Coast wineries.

Vinentini said he tasted wines "of very great quality which, white and red, can readily be compared to certain wines of my country for their bouquet and their remarkable delicacy. They are very, very fine. I think you can be proud of them."

"I don't know if all California wines are of the same quality, he admitted, but if they are it is a good situation for you."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says the technical picture continues to suggest that any penetration of the Dow-Jones industrial average up through the 600 level will spark another market rise.

In any event, the analyst says, current market conditions have brought about attractively low prices that appear to involve little investment risk while at the same time holding promise of substantially higher price levels.

An interesting technical factor of recent days, notes Bache & Co., has been the continuing preponderance of new 1962 lows over new highs. Not since July 12 have new highs exceeded new lows, despite last week's strength in the industrial average. All in all, the general situation remains in suspicion the house concludes.

New Post Office Rules Explained

Beginning Jan. 1, new postal regulations will be effected limiting the size of mailable letters, according to Palm Springs acting Postmaster F. C. Parker.

The new rules will bar any letter from the mails which is non-rectangular in shape. It will also ban as unmailable an envelope which is less than 3 inches in width (height) or 4 1/2 inches in length. According to Parker, the new rules will be put into effect to facilitate the economic handling of mail, both by machines and manual methods.

Parker added that envelopes more than 9 inches in width (height) or 12 inches in length, and envelopes having a ratio of width (height) to length of less than 1 to 1.44 are not recommended for mailing.

Investors advisory service says while a later testing of the June lows cannot be completely ruled out, a base for further upside progress appears to have been formed.

Favor Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department spokesman has indicated the United States would favor a Western foreign ministers' meeting prior to the United Nations General Assembly meeting Sept. 18.

Such a meeting probably will be held in New York or Washington, although no definite plans have been made, U.S. sources said.

Bad Week for Appeasement

Followers of we-shouldn't-take-too-firm-a-stand-against-Communism school of thought have taken great comfort of late in the alleged serious differences between the Communist power centers of Moscow and Peiping. They had a rude shock last week when Russia's Premier Khrushchev, referring to tensions between Red China and Formosa, declared:

"He who dares to attack the Chinese People's Republic will meet a crushing rebuff from the great Chinese people, the peoples of the Soviet Union, and the entire Socialist

Senator Go Home

This is the time of every even numbered year when all Congressmen and those Senators up for re-election begin chafing at the bit because of conflict of interest.

The conflict, of course, is between the demands of stern duty to keep at the seemingly endless legislative business at hand and the very understandable desire to get back home and have a go at campaigning.

We are indebted to the Washington columnist, George Dixon, for the story of the very practical, if cynical, advice offered by an old Washington hand recently to a Senator wrestling with his conscience over this camp. Let no one have any doubts on this score."

That was laying it on the line, at least. Predictably, the new "coalition" government of Laos, established at our government's insistence, began laying it on the line, too. One of its first announcements was that it would seek diplomatic relations with five Communist nations—North Viet Nam, Red China, East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

All in all, it wasn't a very good week for the wishful thinkers who seem to have such strong influence in the guidance of our foreign policy.

traditional problem. The advice was to quit worrying about unfinished business and go home, and this was the reason:

The most conscientious man ever to serve in the Senate, it seems, was Robert M. La Follette, Jr., of Wisconsin, who virtually never missed a roll call. In 1946 he stayed faithfully at his Senate desk, while a young upstart named Joseph R. McCarthy campaigned for his seat—and his reward was to be beaten by 5000 votes.

By contrast, there was another Senator with almost an all-time record for playing hookey. And what happened to him? His present address is the White House!

"In the beginning, the United States was certainly what would today be called an under-developed country. Everyday life in the towns and cities of the colonies that had gained their independence from Great Britain was not much different from life in the towns and cities of the Roman Empire. Tools and methods had changed little in two thousand years. The new Nation had no net capital; in fact, it was heavily in debt and operating on borrowed money. There were no railroads, no factories, no steel mills. Many other countries were far ahead of us in the principal economic assets of the time.

The United States had only one asset of major importance — and that was not an economic asset at all but a political one. It was the idea of a strictly limited government."

—New Haven, Mo., Leader

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

The General and The Professor

WASHINGTON, D.C. — General Maxwell Taylor and Professor Denna Fleming have little in common except that both wrote books which have come back to haunt them — but the General has laid the ghost and the Professor has not.

At the Senate Armed Services committee the other day Taylor gave a broad grin and said that he'd tried, in preparation for this hearing, to reread "The Uncertain Trumpet," which was written some three years ago — "But I found it very heavy going," he admitted.

Written in Anger
Taylor wrote his book in anger after resigning his post as Army Chief of Staff under the Eisenhower regime. In it he came out for a one-man head of the military staff to replace the something - for - everybody Joint Chiefs of Staff where, in practice, one service often gets automatically outvoted by the others.

In the early Eisenhower days, with Admiral Radford (1953-57) and Air Force General Twining (1957-60) as chairmen, the Army was always in the minority when it came to getting missions and weapons. Back in President Truman's time, with General Bradley as chairman, the Navy was underdog, and suffered the cancellation of a supercarrier on a 3 to 1 vote which was a very expensive mistake.

Taylor's thesis in favor of one all-service Chief of Staff, with an eye to the whole military field, has a lot of merit, but it runs into charges of "dictatorship" on Capitol Hill. So when Taylor came up last week for confirmation as chairman of the Joint Chiefs, Senator Margaret Smith asked him if he now intended to try for the centralized power suggested in his book — and Taylor had to make a good-humored retreat.

An Open Mind
He retreated also from his position against "massive retaliation" by saying that if the Russians ever launched a nuclear attack in Europe, "We would use everything" in return. Time doesn't stand still, Taylor said, and he was returning to the Pentagon with an open mind. The General's replies reassured the Senators, but it was his easy good humor which carried the day.

Professor Fleming's book, "The Cold War and Its Origins," was published in 1961 and jumped into the news during the Senate probe of the administration's alleged No Win policy. This is a two-volume opus of 1158 pages, and it labors mightily to prove that the USA and her allies are mainly at fault in the postwar conflict with Russia, that we are losing because we are wrong, and that Russia is winning because she is right.

Such material, of course, is fodder to pacifists and appeasers at home, and it is manna to the Communists. The book reviews pretty generally followed the ideological lines from Left to Right among American critics, with the Communist party's "Political Affairs" last November hailing it as, "An American scholar's great contribution to Peace."

Action Under Way
Well, recently the University of Southern Florida, at Tampa, considered adding Dr. Fleming to its staff. Since I had written on "The Cold War and Its Origins" earlier in the year, somebody brought the matter to my attention. Senator Smathers was out of town when I asked his office for a reaction on Fleming's probable appointment to a job in the Florida educational system. By the time I called for an opinion from Spessard Holland, the State's senior Senator, action was already under way. Holland had phoned the University President, Dr. John Allen, who was absent, but he talked to Dean French. The Dean admitted that "we had been considering Fleming," but that upon learning what the Professor had written, "negotiations were dropped."

It isn't likely that a professional historian like Dr. Fleming could or would repudiate a work of the size, content and "documentation" of his thesis. He must have read a million or more pages in research. He has culled quotations from top American authorities — Walter Lippmann, Herbert Matthews, George Kennan, Brooks Atkinson — whenever their clipped or isolated paragraphs seemed to prove that Russia had rights in East Europe, the Balkans, atomic diplomacy, and that our side had erred.

The book, which I have read only in part, is a monument to contrariness and stands as a fine complement to its fair-minded publisher (who also brought out "Advice and Consent" and more recently Lewis Strauss' "Men and Decisions") and to the American warranty of free expression.

Still, in Dr. Johnson's words every man has a right to his opinion, and the next man has a right to knock him down for it. These are two embarrassing books, under the circumstances. One author had to rise above what he'd written to get a job. The other author couldn't do that — and couldn't get the job, either.

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

I'll bet there are many To whom it's a mystery, Why we are marking This day in our history.

But all of those who were involved get the idea.

This is V-J day, celebrating that day 17 years ago on August 14, 1945, when the Japanese decided that they had had it.

That's why the flags are, or should be, out today.

V-J DAY stands for Victory in Japan just as V-E Day, which comes a bit earlier, is for Victory in Europe.

It is probably better all around that we call it Victory in Europe, rather than Victory in Deutschland. That could be confusing and might be misinterpreted.

A week before the Japanese yelled "Uncle" which was what the kids in my day said when they'd had enough, the Russians first indicated they planned to be difficult.

With the enemy on his knees and, as the more erudite say, almost hors de combat, Stalin jumped on him to make sure of a cut in the spoils.

V-J DAY should be of special significance to Palm Springs. Like every other spot in the nation it had marked time for four years, putting all of its energy into the war effort.

And the minute it recovered from the hangover of the victory celebration, it got busy on long-delayed expansion.

Seventeen years ago today, our assessed valuation was around $8 millions. Today it is $80.5 millions plus. That's more than ten times as much in 17 years which is a pretty fair average in anybody's book.

YEAH, TODAY is a good day to celebrate. We aren't out of the woods yet so far as the threat of war is concerned and Russia is being more difficult than ever.

But it's the day that really started Palm Springs and the Desert Empire on the way.

YOU'VE SEEN, no doubt, these little messages the post office puts on its cancellation machines with the wavy lines that retire a postage stamp from further usage.

Like "Buy U.S. Bonds" and "Pray for Peace." Not both on the same letter, of course. That might sound like you had better pray to keep the bonds good which might create an entirely wrong impression.

WELL, the postage meter people offer you space for a brief advertising missive alongside the stamped amount on your letter.

George Wheeler of the informative Weekly Desert Letter got the idea early and all of his mail, for some time now, has carried an invitation in the upper right hand corner to come ride the Palm Springs Tramway next year. Other firms, using the meters, have followed suit.

MAYBE WE COULD work on Cub Parker, one of our more enterprising citizens and now local Maitre de' P. O. to include that Tramway plug on the cancellation machines at the local mailing mill. He always been a P.S. booster.

It's an idea.

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: My mother died three years ago and my father remarried last month. Nobody could ever take my mother's place, but I was told I was getting a "new" mother. I not only didn't get a "new" mother, I lost my father, too. His new wife set up all sorts of rules and regulations to help me grow up "right." And my father is on her side. So, Dear Abby, if you want to give young people helpful advice when they get a "new" mother or father, tell them the sooner they start thinking of themselves as orphans the better off they'll be.

FOURTEEN AND FED UP

DEAR FOURTEEN: Your problem is a familiar one. When a child loses a parent, the remaining parent frequently eases up on discipline out of sympathy. When "rules and regulations" are suddenly imposed again, resentment follows. Your "new" mother will never take the place of the one you lost, but she is doing her best to raise you "right." Give her a chance.

DEAR ABBY: A nephew of mine is being married soon. My husband and I were not invited to the wedding because of a family fight that took place two years ago. The wedding is being held in the church we belong to. I say there is no reason why we can't go to that church and see the wedding. If they don't like it, let them try to throw us out. (Of course, we wouldn't go to the reception.) My husband says we should not go to the church. I don't see why we should stay away since it's OUR church. What do you think?

DEAR NOT: If you want to Remember When

August 14, 1952

A long-time ban on outdoor eating places was lifted as city council adopted an ordinance permitting cafes in C-R zones to establish tables in the open. The ordinance called attention to the situation here where "sunshine and fair weather prevail."

Attorney Roy Colegate reported that the city had started condemnation proceedings to obtain ownership of the northeast parts of the two paved runways at the Municipal Airport.

August 14, 1942
City council appropriated $110 for maintenance at the Racquet Club and Adrian Hoof swimming pool the remainder of the month. Both the club and the private pool have been turned over to the city for the public's use during the summer.

Palm Springs' quota for new bicycles during August is only three, Eugene Theriault of the rationing board said.

August 14, 1932
Word was received here of the death in Long Beach of Frank Burgess Hanscom, first postmaster of Palm Springs.

Local hunters were advised that the deer-hunting season, scheduled to start September 16, may be delayed by the continuing high fire hazard in the local mountains.

go to your church to see the wedding — go. And if your husband wants to stay home — go without him.

DEAR ABBY: While cleaning my son's room I came across a letter he had written to you, Dear Abby. He signed himself "STILL IN LOVE." I think you should know that "STILL IN LOVE" was born December 9, 1950. What is the matter with CHILDREN NOWADAYS? "STILL IN LOVE'S" MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Don't be alarmed. Your little boy is merely borrowing the romantic jargon of modern times. "Nowadays," children are not much different from yesterday's. Don't ridicule him.

DEAR ABBY: Your correspondent, HARRY, who would rather have a mule than a wife (because the mule would bring in a few dollars) sure bugged me. Call his bluff and send him the mule, Abby. Every Jackass should have a mate.

LEO

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in to your column saying that her daughter "frizzed her hair out" until she looked like a Fiji Islander. Pardon me, but I am a Fiji Islander and my hair is NOT "frizzed out."

It grieves me that most otherwise fairly intelligent people are so ignorant of our culture. The majority of Fiji Islanders are Christians and can read and write. We are not primitive savages as many believe, but are more civilized in many respects than some Americans, Europeans, Canadians and South Americans. Respectfully yours,

VITU LEVU

DEAR ABBY: A man who works where I work has been after me for some time. I refused to go out with him because I have heard he is married and I don't want to get involved with a married man. He said he has a "legal separation" which automatically becomes a divorce after a certain length of time. Is this true? Is there any future in my dating this man?

DECENT
DEAR DECENT: A legal separation never "automatically" becomes a divorce. If you are eligible for marriage, don't waste your time with a man who isn't.

DEAR ABBY: Every girl I date cries on my shoulder and tells me about her fouled-up love life. I'd like a girl to be interested in ME for myself, not as a "friend" who can give her tips on how to get another guy. I am not bad looking, no drinker, a steady worker and 30 years old already. I want to get married. So what do I do now?

THE BIG BROTHER TYPE

DEAR BROTHER TYPE: If you play the supporting role of big brother too often you'll never get the romantic lead. Start with fresh talent. Don't waste shoulder space on the weepers. And tell the ladies with "fouled-up love lives" to tell it to Abby.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE BATTLING FITZGERALDS: Kiss and make up. You know you can't live without each other

SENATOR LEE BACKSTRAND

Your Legislator at Work

How to get along with employees is just as big a problem for government as it is for private industry. The successful operation of any public agency is just as much dependent upon the ability, morale, and willingness to work of its employees as is a pickle factory.

Public opinion, however, seems to distinguish an important difference between government and private employment. This is with respect to the right to strike. It seems to be fairly commonly accepted that public employees, in the majority of instances, should not have the right to strike. But beyond that, there is mostly public silence on other labor-management factors in governmental employment.

Civil service laws, "merit systems" for selection and retention of employees, and other systems of acquiring job tenure have been in existence for a great many years. Their operations until recently have tended to obscure certain problems, such as the refusal of some public agencies to permit their employees to join, or not to join, organizations of their own choosing. Various association of public employees have developed different methods of assisting their members in dealing with their employing agencies. Labor unions have also been active in the field, and in some segments, are dominant.

At our 1961 session, two bills to establish policy, and set controls on employee-employer relations in all California public agencies were introduced. One passed and became law. The second proved controversial, and was referred to interim study. Recently the Assembly committee on civil service and state personnel held another in a series of hearings on this second measure.

The bill which did become law went into effect in September, 1961. It provides that public employees have the right to form, join and participate in employee organizations of their own choosing to represent them in all job matters, and have the right to refuse to join such groups, and to represent themselves personally. The law does not supersede civil service, or other forms of merit systems. It provides that such employee organizations have the right to represent their members, and that public agencies must confer and deal with them. It prohibits coercion, either by employing agency, or by employee organization, of employees, in joining, or not joining. It specifically states that public employees are not covered by Labor Code provisions relating to collective bargaining.

The bill still being studied went much further. As introduced, it would set up, in effect, a "Little National Labor Relations Board," with provision for formal representation of employees, settlement of "negotiations," and arbitration of disputes. It would create a "Public Employment Relations Controls Agency," complete with a Board to run it.

The bill was sponsored by the state employees association, and supported by the leagues of city and county employee associations. It was opposed by the league of cities, the county supervisors, and the conference of employer associations, representing private employers. Certain labor unions, and groups of certain types of public employees, were critical of many of its specific provisions, though not of its main purpose. Many spokesmen said that the law which did pass was sufficient, and could be later improved, if it proved necessary.

Major changes have been made in the proposed bill. Agencies with less than 25 employees, school districts, transit authorities, and fire fighters would now be exempt. But it is apparent that the bill is still in considerable dispute.

The Desert Sun
Dear Sir:

Now that you have stole a march for the coupon clippers by beating out withholding taxes for money sharks, I notice in your July 14th issue that your hard at work clinching the 27.5 depreciating allowance for the oil oligarch. You don't like the word "loophole", do you? Anybody can see that you live in this rotten gutter. There isn't fair play in a boxcar full of your brand of men. Your kind of guy that saws of the limb that your sitting on. I also notice that you do publish unsigned articles — when its against communism. That makes you a true fascist. Just like "Billie Sol Estes" is a true Texan. This "Billie Sol" is some more of your brand of men. No wonder you hate Communism.

I suppose you put yourself up as a true Christian, too, with a heavy shoulder to the wheel, helping to drive the "money changers" out of the temples of God.

I was sitting in the audience the night your boss introduced Mr. Drew Pearson, last winter. I took a pretty good look at the old scurpie. He looks like you write, so, you must be the right man in the proper place. It makes a man look capitalistic to have the look of a scurpius on his face. Together with your editorials, and your bosses face, Palm Springs has everything to lose and nothing to gain. But getting back to the withholding taxes on labor alone, you remind me so much of the religious Hindu cultus who are not happy unless he is walking in fire or sitting on spikes.

Thank you very much, Mr. Editor, or should I say wastebasket.

Yours,

KITTY SMITH

L. A. Angels Play Beantown Bosox As If They Owned 'Em

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Impatient Ted Bowsfield could destroy the hard earned image of modern baseball if he continues in his present course. The Los Angeles Angels pitcher has the audacity to hurl a game in less than two hours.

Bowsfield had a perfect game going Monday night for 4-2-3 innings and finally emerged with a five-hit 5-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox. And the game—with two Boston pitching changes—ran only 1 hour 48 minutes.

Why if the Dodgers' Stan Williams or the White Sox' Early Wynn get word of what Bowsfield's doing they'll probably step off the mound in horror—adding several more minutes to their almost three-hour games.

This wasn't the first time the Canadian-born lefthander saved the Angels' nearly an hour's worth of light bills. He already had a 1 hour 32 minute game to his credit this season—some innings nearly are that long—and a 1 hour 48 minute affair. However, one can bet things will slow down considerably when the Angels and Red Sox meet in a two-night doubleheader tonight that most likely will end around midnight. Eli Grba (6-7) and Dean Chance (10-6) are scheduled to pitch for Los Angeles, while Bill Monbouquette (10-11) — who pitched a no hitter two weeks ago — and Chet Nichols (0-1) are to work for Boston.

Bowsfield, who explains his rapidness on the mound as just his nature—"I walk fast, I talk fast and I pitch fast." He had a three-hit shutout going until the ninth. Then Boston's Ed Bressoud tripled to open the inning, and Frank Malzone beat out a grounder to second for an infield hit that scored Bressoud with two down.

Angel first baseman Lee Thomas said later he pulled his foot off the bag on the play.

Bowsfield, pitching his first complete game since last September 26th, retired the initial 14 Sox batters to face him. Then catcher Bob Tillman singled to center—wrecking thoughts of a perfect game or no hitter.

The Angels were leading 2-0 in the seventh when they exploded for three hits and a walk to score three times. The big blow was a two-run single by Lee Thomas off reliever Arnold Earley who just had come in for starter Gene Conley.

As most persons will remember, Conley is the guy who jumped the Red Sox bus several weeks ago and was determined to go to Israel. Since he took the loss Monday night it might have been better for the pitcher if he had made it there — or even Death Valley.

Dodgers Face Bucs In 3 Games

'Chilled' From Recent Weekend At Candlestick

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, painfully aware of last year's fatal 10-game nose-dive which cost them the lead and the National League pennant, opened a three-game series to-night against tough Pittsburgh.

Veteran southpaw Johnny Podres (9-8), who had a late-season winning streak chilled by the second place San Francisco Giants, faces Al McBean (11-8) for the Pirates.

The Dodgers will tread dangerous water for the next seven days. Following the Pittsburgh series, Los Angeles meets the Cincinnati Reds in another crucial match.

Meanwhile the Giants, who chopped the Dodger lead to 2½ games, get a chance to overtake Los Angeles in games against the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee.

Los Angeles enters tonight's game with a 4-2 record at Forbes Field. Over-all, the Dodgers boast of a 7-5 edge over the Pirate for the season.

The league-leaders have 43 games remaining, including tonight's contest. They have 22 road games to play and 21 at home.

When the Dodger pennant drive faltered last year, the club held a two-game lead. But none of the team members is particularly worried this year.

"It was a very bad series for us, but we've still got four games with the Giants at home," Dodger manager Walt Alston said.

The three games blown at Candlestick Park last weekend equaled the Dodgers' longest losing streak this year. They have rallied from four previous three-game setbacks and have been playing at a .664 clip so far.

'Fly Boys' Don't Think Much of 'Cool Colorado'

OXNARD AFB (UPI) — The U.S. Air Force Academy Falcons today began a week of preseason football practice here.

Arrangements were made to have the squad drill here, only a few miles from the coastal town of Oxnard, to escape the midsummer heat at the Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., coach Ben Martin said.

The Falcons went through a double session at nearby Camarillo High School's football field. They will hold a light scrimmage Saturday before returning to the Academy.

DEL MAR, Calif. (UPI)—Stewards at Del Mar race track have handed down a five-day suspension to jockey Ray Yaka for careless riding aboard slipped Disc in the fifth race Aug. 11. The ban begins Wednesday.

TAKES DAILY DOUBLE

SALEM, N.H. (UPI) — Luigi Gino, an Italian-born jockey, booted home both ends of the $118.20 daily double at Rockingham Park Monday. He won the first race on Des Plaines ($2.60) and scored in the second aboard Lone Peak ($23.60).

POSTS NEW RECORD

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer's latest victory has boosted him over his own single year mark for earnings on the pro golf tour. The Latrobe, Pa., belter, who added the American Golf Classic Sunday, has winnings totaling $80,198. Gene Littler ranks second for the year with earnings of $61,170.82. Billy Casper Jr., is third with $53,438.44.

WARRIORS INK HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association announced today they have signed former Kansas basketball star Wayne Hightower.

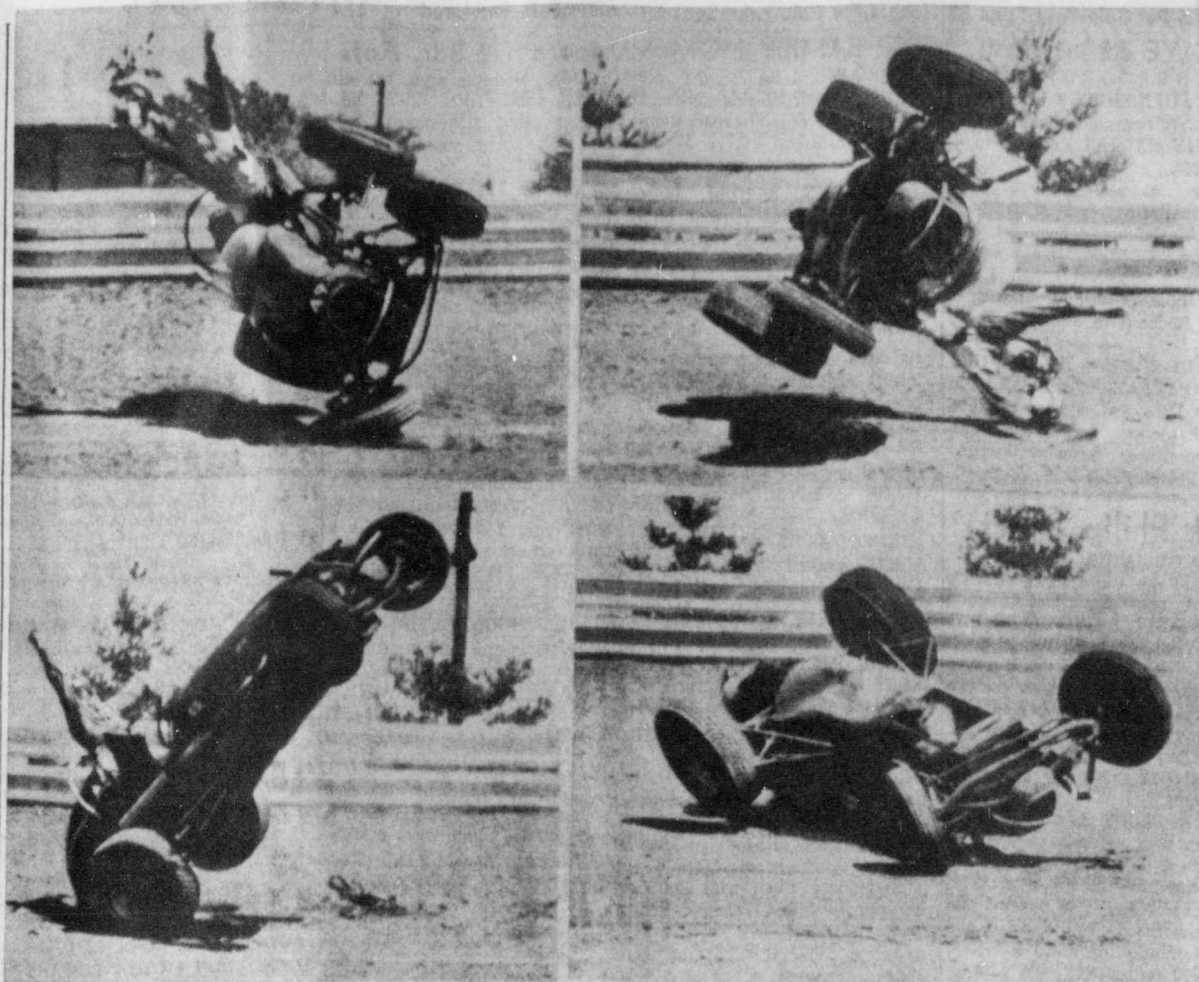

The 6-foot-10 inch forward, one-time high school classmate of fellow Warrior Wilt Chamberlain, was first draft choice for the San Francisco club in last year's NBA draft. He played for the Real Madrid basketball squad in 1961 and led the Spanish team to the European finals.

TO FIELD TEAM

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — General Manager Bing Devine announced Wednesday that the St. Louis Cardinals will field a team in the Florida Winter Instructional League which competes from approximately Oct. 15 to Dec. 15.

RECORD IS OFFICIAL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The University of Oregon's four-mile relay team today officially holds the world record of 16 minutes 9.0 seconds. The team of Archie San Romani Jr., Vic Reeve, Keith Forman and Dyrol Burleson set the mark.

Pro Pigskin Camp Briefs

OAKLAND RAIDERS

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI)—Coach Marty Feldman today credited the condition of the team with the weekend's 21-20 win over Boston in a contest at Providence, R.I.

He said that Boston was a tired club in the fourth quarter while the Raiders continued to bang away.

Feldman said he was happy with his club's aggressive play even though it resulted in a half-dozen 15 yard penalties including two that set up Boston scores.

"We won't play dirty, but every team in this league will know they've been hit by the Raiders," he said.

Feldman promised to unveil hotshot rookies Hank Rivera, a defensive back, and Dan Birdwell, a defensive end, in this week's rematch against Dallas Saturday night at Midland, Tex. Both Rivera and Birdwell arrived in camp late after playing in the All-Star game and were not quite ready for action last week.

Coach Feldman said that the team has yet to suffer a serious injury and all his troops are looking forward to Saturday's battle. Dallas won the first meeting with Oakland 13-3 in a defensive tangle.

S.F. 49'ers

MORAGA, Calif. (UPI) — Don McIlhenny, a tough veteran halfback with seven years experience in the National Football League, has hung up his spikes.

He told the San Francisco Forty Niner management Monday that he wanted to devote full time to his insurance business. He previously played for Detroit, Green Bay and Dallas after his graduation from Southern Methodist University.

The Forty Niners promptly boosted their roster back to 48 by signing halfback Ted Woods of Colorado. He was the team's fifth draft choice, but signed with Vancouver of the Canadian League.

He was released last week by Vancouver, but the Forty Niners still hope the former national 400 meters college champ can make it as a flanker back.

The Forty Niners planned to resume twice-a-day sessions today in preparation for Sunday's battle in San Francisco with the New York Giants.

Team officials said that center Frank Morse, hurt last Saturday against Minnesota, would definitely miss the Giant tiff.

Massey's Edge Sun Team, 8-7

Massey Sand and Rock softball team edged The Desert Sun nine, 8-7, last night at the Polo Grounds in the Desert Softball League as the summer season draws to a close.

The Desert Sun stickmen jumped to a 2-1 first inning lead and cushioned the margin in the second frame by pushing across three tallies. They added another score in the top of the fourth inning, but allowed the Massey batsmen to warm up the base paths with seven big scores in their half of the inning.

The fighting Sun team pushed another run across in the sixth inning, but fell one score short as the contest ended with them on the short end of the scoring, 8-7.

In tonight's action at the Polo Grounds, the Valley Equipment team will play the league leading Mexican Colony in the first tilt. And rounding out the double-header will be the Telephone and Water Co. nine meeting the Chuck's Welding stickmen.

'Pirates' Baseball Team Feted at Victory Dinner

Eleven ball players who were members of the Cameron "Pirates," winners of the Keystone League, were feted at a victory dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley to celebrate their successful season.

The "Pirates" baseball team won the Keystone League championship for 1962 sponsored by the Boys' Club of Palm Springs. During the 20 game schedule, the "Pirates" won 10, lost six and tied two. Sam Alexander, an outstanding high school athlete, was a member of this ball club and played regularly before he lost his life drowning in the Salton Sea.

The 11 members honored during the dinner celebration were: Ernie Reyes, catcher; Jack Frost, shortstop; Fred Rubin, centerfield; Bill Bradley, third base; Tom Bradley, first base; Jay Mead, pitcher; Allen Burland, leftfield; Jim Pendergast, rightfield; Mike Lewis, second base; Cliff Thails, pitcher and Wendal Pellum, rightfield. Alexander was the club's regular left fielder before his stunning tragedy.

Besides the host and hostess, Mrs. Al Buccell played an all important part in the preparation of the victory dinner as she supplied the pizza for the honored ball club.

Keglers Korner

Rudy Zeman, banging the pins at the PS Lanes in the Summer Hodge Podge league, rolled his series of 578 and topped the competing keglers with a 212 hi-game.

In the ladies division, Carol Giesler took top honors with her first 202 hi-game and finished out with a hi-series of 469 to spark her team, the Panoramias, to a 4-0 win over the Paint and Rug team.

Rain-Proof Roofing edged the 600 Coiffeur's, 3-1; Maggie's Kid's defeated Gardner Reynolds, 3-1; The Twisters posted a 3-1 victory over the Powers Carpet Service, and Team No. 2 won over Team No. 10, 3-1.

Pro Golfer Catches 'Par' Of Corvina at Salton Sea

Corvina are hitting frantically at Salton Sea, according to Moon Mullins, golf professional. Mullins, who is visiting his wife's parents, General and Mrs. Lee Utz at Bermuda Dunes, fished the sea Friday and Saturday with publisher Carl W. Schooss.

Limits of the scrappy fish, averaging 10 pounds, were taken both days by the pair, fishing Schooss' boat out of the North Shore Yacht Club, according to Mullins.

"The Corvina were found off the storm drain, north of the club. They hit both live mudsucker bait and cast feather jigs. They were taken on light spinning gear and provided a sporty battle," Mullins said.

Although other areas of the sea were tried, such as Salt Creek and the south shores, the only sizeable fish were found two to three miles north of the club launching area.

"Our most productive technique," Mullins said, "was to find an area where the birds were working and drift in with bait or lures."

'Whizzer' Named Hall Of Fame's Medal Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Byron (Whizzer) White, an All-America halfback at Colorado in the mid 1930's who rose to become an associate Supreme Court justice, has been named the sixth recipient of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's gold medal award.

White will be on hand at the foundation's annual awards dinner, Dec. 4, at the Waldorf Astoria hotel to accept the medal "for distinguished service and devotion to the game of American intercollegiate football."

He becomes only the second member of the Hall of Fame to be named for the award. Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of football who celebrates his 100th birthday on Thursday, is the other.

The other winners include President John F. Kennedy, former presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

As a triple threat at Colorado, White was the nation's leading scorer in 1937 with 122 points that helped his team through an undefeated season and an invitation to the Cotton Bowl.

Upon graduation from Colorado, White played professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Detroit Lions.
